

RAISING MONEY TO MEET WAR

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., April 21.—Opposition to many of Secretary McAdoo's suggestions as to possible new sources of revenue, has developed when the ways and means committee met for the first time to consider raising money by taxation to meet war expenditures. No final votes were taken on any proposals, but the preliminary discussion showed that no little time was required to reconcile the widely divergent views of various members.

No partisan differences arose, however, and this strengthened Democratic Leader Kitchen's belief that a bill will be agreed upon within two weeks. Every effort will be made, Mr. Kitchen said today, to keep politics out of the discussions and if deemed advisable to expedite action, plans to put tariff duties on certain articles now admitted free will be abandoned. Greater possibility of partisan debate lies in the tariff than any other phase of the question, it is believed.

Vigorous protests are being made both to the commission and Secretary McAdoo against the suggestions that the excess profits tax be increased. Its opponents, most of whom say they represent the small corporations, insist that the proposed increase would only levy an increased burden on them, and without touching any of the larger companies which, having floated vast quantities of stock, do not earn the eight per cent profit exempted under the present law.

A flat war tax of three per cent or more on the net profits of all corporations is being suggested by opponents of the proposed excess profits tax increase.

Feeling prevails generally in the committee that the income exemption should be lowered, it was said, and it is probable that the secretary's suggestions of a $1500 exemption for single persons and $3000 for married ones will be adopted.

GRAIN USED BY DISTILLERIES NOT AS GREAT AS STATED

(By Associated Press.)
LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 21.—T. M. Gilmore, of Louisville, president of the national model license league, has issued a statement contradicting assertions concerning the amount of grain annually used by the brewing and distilling industry made recently at St. Louis by Henry J. Watson, president of the Kansas state agricultural colleges, before a conference called there by Secretary of Agriculture Houston to consider the food situation of the nation. The statement quotes Leon M. Estabrook, chief of the bureau of crop estimates of the department of agriculture as estimating "that the amount is approximately 100,000,000 bushels, made up mostly of corn and barley."

"This estimate," says the statement, "was sought in reference to allegations recently made at a food conservation conference in St. Louis claiming the annual consumption was more than 600,000,000 bushels. The amount varies with production. In the fiscal year 1916, the distilleries used 38,748,892 bushels, according to the report of the commissioner of internal revenue, who estimated that each bushel yielded 4.63 gallons of distilled spirits.

At the present price of grain there is no need for legislation to restrict distilling operations. The last fiscal year closed with 232,402,878 gallons of spirits in the warehouses and this quantity is able to take care of the demand until grain becomes more plentiful. The grain now being used by distillers is being consumed mostly in making alcohol for munitions. The residue is not wasted, because after being used in the stills, it is fed to livestock and the "cooking" process improves its quality for fattening purposes."

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., April 21.—Suggestions that the government is contemplating measures for national prohibition during the war as a means of increasing the food supply are met with the statement by officials that no early action in that direction is likely as it is not considered necessary at this time. Secretary Houston alluded to it today in his letter to the senate by a reference to European action in restricting the manufacture of alcoholic liquors. He made no recommendations, however, merely pointing out that the European governments have saved considerable food that way. Estimates, he said, put the amount of food made into liquor in the United States at about $145,000,000 annually.

TEACHING YOUTHS HOW TO SWIM

(By Associated Press.)
SAN FRANCISCO, April 21.—The growing importance attached to a knowledge of how to swim is further evidenced by a movement on foot at Modesto, California, for a municipal swimming pool. In this Modesto is following in the footsteps of a half score of smaller California cities which already have plans for the instruction of boys and girls as to methods both of self preservation and the rescue of others in the water.

George J. Jones, who a few years ago was ranked among the leading racket wielders of the Pacific coast, is being picked in Spokane to step into the place left vacant by Joe Tyler, many times Inland Empire tennis champion and holder of numerous other northwest titles. Jones, who in 1909 won the Pacific coast title from a field which included Maurice McLoughlin, now lives in Spokane. He first won the Pacific coast title in 1905 and from that time until 1909, when he again annexed the championship, he has always ranked among the first three or four.

Only one Montana state university athlete wins a wrestling emblem as a result of the first season of intercollegiate wrestling in which Montana's state university has participated. He is Christian "Blitzen" Bentz, who was awarded his letter for winning a match against Saupé, of Washington state college on the mat this year. Emblems for participation in intercollegiate basketball the past season will go to Lawton Sanderson, Floyd Sallor, Frank Johnson, Albert Jones, Claude McQuarrie, William Larkin and Ritchey Newman.

Despite the war, the Pacific Northwest gold championship tourney will be held in Portland as originally planned, on June 25-30, according to C. H. Davis, Jr., president of the Northwest golf association. Mr. Davis expected players from Tacoma, Seattle, Spokane, Vancouver

OLYMPIC COMPANY BEGINS MILLING

CLOSE CORPORATION OPERATING NEAR MINA READY FOR AN ACTIVE CAMPAIGN

The Olympic Mines company, a close corporation with only four stockholders, owning a group of claims in Mineral county 25 miles northeast of Mina, is ready for the productive stage after spending 18 months in preparation and mine development represented by a shaft 225 feet deep from which lateral work was prosecuted. The values are in gold and silver, the former predominating with a return of $23.50 per ton. A mill has been completed with a capacity of 75 tons a day which may be increased 30 per cent by adding another filter. The property has been brought to its present state through the efforts of Fred Siebert, who is well known for his connection with the leading mines of Tonopah and Goldfield in the early days. The Olympic is situated in the Bell mining district, one of the oldest in the state. Power is supplied by a Diesel engine furnished by the Allis-Chalmers company and installed under the supervision of A. H. Sparr, the Diesel engine expert of the Allis-Chalmers company. Crude oil is used. The mill is in charge of M. E. Willmott and James E. Greenan is superintendent of the mine.

CHARACTERISTICS OF ALSATIAN PEOPLE DESCRIBED BY PASTOR

(By Associated Press.)
PARIS, April 21.—"If there is entertained anywhere a conviction that Alsace is German in spirit today, it is a superficial deduction lacking exactly what the Germans have never had, that is, the element of psychology," said Pastor Charles Wagner, author of "The Simple Life," speaking to the Associated Press about President Wilson's speech to the Democratic national committee and the semi-official reply sent out from Berlin in which it was declared that Alsace is today, as it always has been, German in language, tradition and sentiment. Pastor Wagner began his career as a clergyman in Alsace after the war of 1870.

"The Germans claim Alsace as a German-speaking country; yet they themselves were surprised in 1870 to find a people there speaking a language similar to their own, yet so different in everything that goes to make up life," continued the pastor.

"There were Alsations that might have been called 'half and half,' that had benefited from French culture and German science. That element thought that, if France should lose Alsace, it might become more and more a connecting link between the two countries. Indeed, the historical original of Alsace would justify the conviction that the country had a great mission to perform in the world, but that mission was denied by the Germans. They would not admit that the Alsations could draw on two sources. They required that the annexed people should forget France, that they should have only one pride and one glory, that of being German."

"A curious result of the German effort to stamp out French in Alsace was that in proportion as the Alsations forgot French they became more Alsatian, while they never approached any nearer to being German. In less than fifteen years after the beginning of the German occupation, an Alsatian literature had sprung up. The Germans permitted it, not understanding that that provincial patois was a sort of a fortress behind which Alsatian characteristics were sheltered."

Passing on to general questions regarding the war and its effects afterward, Pastor Wagner expressed the opinion that the world will be spiritually better for the great trial through which it has passed.

Thoughts which, expressed, would offend, are better left unspoken even if they are perfectly correct.—Albany Journal.

GARIBALDI OFFERS SUPPORT TO AMERICA

PROPOSES TO RAISE AN ARMY TO ATTACK CONSTANTINOPLE THROUGH THE BALKANS

(By Associated Press.)
ROME, April 21.—Gen. Ricotti Garibaldi has offered himself and his four sons, all officers in the Italian army. Rising on his crutches, Gen. Garibaldi said:

"I would be proud to draw my sword under the Stars and Stripes." Gen. Garibaldi proposes the formation in America of an army of 30,000 to 100,000 Italian, Spanish and American volunteers to be thrown into the Balkans from Saloniki and open up a route for the regulars to follow. He believes it would be thus possible to reach Constantinople in a fairly short time.
